Senior Software Developer

A senior developer looking for a crew of inspired and skillful engineers to build great products.

I started my path as a C++ developer but switched to Python 11 years ago. I've used Python to build different kinds of services from internal identity management systems in a medium-size company (3,000-4,000 employees) to a b2b service Yandex Connect with DAU 100,000.

I like to use and create opensource libraries and projects, you'll find dozens of them at my GitHub profile. Link is at the bottom of this page.

A most important quality in each team member is his engagement with the project and the desire to improve it. This is the kind of team I'm looking for.
